Job description

Limbic Entertainment is seeking a talented and experienced Senior Level Designer for an unannounced Unreal Engine 4 project.

As a Senior Level Designer, you will have a great passion for game development in all areas but especially in the use of Unreal Engine. You will have already worked for several years in professional environments and shipped several products. With this experience, you will be a key player and a central spokesperson for the team. Working with and training colleagues will be a very important aspect of this position. You will have a strong sense of ownership of multiple-level design-related development steps and will be a main contact person for leads and management.
