Job description

Junior Unity 3d Developer (f/m)

At Fluffy Fairy Games you will... take ownership of everything you do. Be in an unique environment, a true no-bullshit meritocracy where your skills and efforts really make a difference. Build fast and ship faster. Try hard and learn harder. Grow with every problem encountered. Be paid at industry level. Have access to management all the time.

And you will not... get your game killed in an intransparent gate process. Wait a week for a management decision. Compromise on a viable idea because of somebody else's gut feelings. Be surrounded by interns who shoulder much of the actual work without real pay or a chance to land a job. Watch the lead engineer fiddle about for days in search of a perfect solution if a solid hack would have solved the problem. Et cetera. You get the picture.

Responsibilities

- Develop mobile games, based on C# and Unity3D
- Implement interfaces, game logic and new features
- Optimize game elements by incorporating player feedback
- Collaborate with different roles (e.g. artist, game designer, backend)
- Develop tools to support and automate the development process (e.g. Unity extentions)
- Live a culture of sharing knowledge, best practices and standards

Skills☐

- Experience in game development with Unity3D for iOS and Android
- Solid programming skills in C# or a related language
- Familiarity with reactive programming is an advantage
- Hands-on knowledge of Git (or similar revision control systems)
